I'm going to show you today how to register a new account within the ExpressMe app.

After you've installed the app on your Android or iOS device, you'll see the start screen. Here you can choose between registering a new account or logging in with an existing user. Since we want to create a new account, we click the first button.

Next, you can fill in your email address and password. Once you've done this, click "Register new account".

You'll then receive a verification code via email. This may take a few seconds. If you don't receive the email immediately, check your spam folder. The email comes from `noreply.verificationemail.com`. Enter the received code to confirm your account.

Once your account is confirmed, you'll see a new screen where you can choose to start a free trial or immediately purchase a subscription. Select the free trial to first try out the app.

After starting the trial period, you can continue to the app via the button at the bottom and use it fully.
